Rites of Passage

Rites of passage, ceremonial events, occur in all societies. They mark the movement from one social or religious status to another: an ending and a beginning. Rites of passage are often linked to the cycle of our lives – birth, maturity, reproduction and death – and help us to fit happily into the community to which we belong. Often, they are fun – birthday parties, weddings, even wakes and funerals – as well as being deeply serious. It is hardly surprising that the Church year, which follows Jesus from birth to death, resurrection to ascension is marked by a succession of rites of passage.

This Sunday our season of joyful celebration that began at Christmas ends with the Feast of the Presentation (Candlemas). Luke describes two rites of passage for Jesus – naming and circumcision, followed by His presentation at the Temple, both requirements of Jewish law. Jesus, the man, is a Jew who follows the rites established long before his birth. Simeon and Anna recognise that He is a very special child indeed: 'a light to lighten the Gentiles' and 'the glory of God's people Israel'. The redemption He brings, however, will only be won through suffering that will pierce His mother's soul. How touching it is that Anna is there to comfort Mary after Simeon's stark warning.

It is natural for us to fear death – to see it as a rite of passage with only an ending. Such fear can paralyse us and make us forget our purpose and mission. The reading from Hebrews helps to put our minds at rest. We might not be able to understand that there could be a better way to understand death, but God can. His solution was to enter our world as Jesus, our older brother, the first-born of God's human family. His sacrifice took away our sin and His resurrection removes our fear of death. Out of pure love, Jesus entered completely the reality of suffering and death present in God's creation. By resurrection He overcame both and opened a path for us to follow, free from fear, into His father's kingdom – a beginning for us all to savour.

Support for 'Open the Book' in Schools

Carol Preston, our Children and Families Worker, is asking for support in taking 'Open the Book' into the local schools. 'Open the Book' is about putting the Bible in a fun drama form and taking it into the schools. There are two ways of helping. (1) Being part of the 'Open the Book' Team to go into the local schools and (2) Help make resources for outfits for the characters/stage props. This is a very important ministry as it is sharing Gods Word to the next generation. If you can offer any help/support in any way, please contact Carol . Thank you.
